

Stanford CEDAR Information Architecture v.1

This is meant to inform design and guide development, but it does not guarantee the final layout or placement of design elements.

Interaction Specifications

- 1

Dashboard
This will include the ability to create new Elements & Metadata Templates, as well as run Metadata Templates. We will also include the ability to see recently created and run items.

Element Builder
Create elements for use in the Metadata Template Builder here. Choosing 'Done' saves the element and brings the user back to the Dashboard.
- 3

Metadata Template Creator
Here you add Elements to create a template. Ideally, the system will autosave the form as you are creating it (after each element is added, the form is saved, eliminating the risk that work could be lost). Choosing 'Done' will bring the user back to the Dashboard.

Metadata Template Runtime
This is where a user runs the Metadata Templates they have created. We will include a list of all their templates (up for discussion on this), that would allow them to run an unlimited amount of templates consecutively. Choosing 'Done' will return the user to the dashboard.
- 5

Infinite Runtime
This simply symbolizes that a user could run an unlimited amount of runtimes without returning to the Dashboard.
